Soon, predicts a Cornell professor, children will quit being born. All the children we know have done so already.

The duke of Abruzzi is to try Alpine climbing. He is determined to get to the top of some of his mountains of difficulty.

England shows its good manners and good sense in not getting excited over those alleged interviews with the German emperor.

Both England and Germany would sleep better on dark nights if they would generate a little more of the spirit of brotherly love.

Mr. Hammerstein says "a theatrical man can't be a pinocchio husband." Which would doubtless be interesting information if we could translate it.

Lord Roberts has grown so nervous over the aggressive curl of Emperor William's mustaches that he demands for England an army of 1,000,000 men.

A St. Louis justice became very indignant when a bridegroom offered him a drink after the ceremony. The customary fee will buy several drinks.

Sir Theodore Martin, the doyen of English literature, recently celebrated the ninety-second anniversary of his birthday at his Welsh home, Bryntilly, Llanfyllen.

A powder firm in Cologne refused to fill an order from Roumania on account of previous large orders from other Balkan states. Naturally, a Cologne firm would be able at first sight to scent war trouble.

Mr. Rockefeller has just drawn his check in favor of Richmond college, Richmond, Va., for $150,000. Another item added to the cumulative evidence that he really has some other business besides that of making money.

A society in Norway has concluded an agreement to work Dr. de Sava's patents for making metallic zinc out of low-grade ores. At first about 50 tons of metallic zinc and about one ton of metallic lead, as well as a little copper and silver, will be treated each day.

Mrs. Charles Brodie Patterson, a student of longevity, announces that it is possible for a man to live forever. Precisely. Not only "a man," but all men live forever, although they cannot remember this earth, which is rather limited in its standing capacity. Man has to move up to give other fellows a chance here below.

An attempt is making in New York to limit the height of buildings in that city to 250 feet. It is urged that the higher buildings, those of five or six hundred feet, are a menace to the health of the people as well as dangerous in case of fire. In Boston and in Washington a much lower limit has been established by law.

The divorce statistics just published emphasize again the need of a uniform national divorce law as the only means by which the evil can be kept in check. As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, neither is divorce in the union more difficult than in the state with the most lax laws. There is no use in passing a restrictive law in one state which can be nullified at individual pleasure in another.

Mr. Powderly, after investigation, declares there are few men in the New York "bread line" who want to work. He suggests state farms. Good, as far as it goes. But many of these men would be of no use on any kind of a farm. Some are better adapted to building roads. The plan of Orlando F. Lewis for employment stations is more comprehensive and more practical, thinks the Pittsburg Dispatch.

A British peer advocates temporary confiscation of a car for automobile speeding. The remedy is, in the opinion of the Baltimore American, rather drastic, but it is evident from the increasing number of accidents and the disregard for life and limb manifested by the speed maniacs that something must be done in the way of punitive legislation. The present system of fines is wholly inadequate; in fact, they constitute but the smallest part of the running expenses of motoring, and plainly are so regarded.

The navy department wants a wireless telephone plant established in Washington for its use. If the system is sufficiently practical to be in such demand it will soon be in general use and vocal messages will be floating through the air in every direction. But where is the sound while the message is on its travel? The query suggests the old problem: If a tree falls in the middle of a forest where no man can hear it, is there any noise from the crash?

Wilbur Wright is going after a $15,000 prize in a French aeroplane race next month, although he knows perfectly well how the French aeroplanists hate to lose the money.

What satirist of society has done such a sketch of degenerate aristocracy as is drawn of themselves by the French princelings in the court proceedings for the possession of an American girl's fortune? Is the bubble for American aristocracy bursting themselves to titled rakes worth the incumbrance? asks the New York World.

There is a young woman in Connecticut who has an odd quarrel with fate. Her humble avocation in life is that of a domestic, and she has no hurling ambitions to rise above her station, but she cannot keep a job because she is too good-looking. The oddest thing about this odd young woman, says the Baltimore American, is that she is still trying to break into unselective households, and has never given a thought to the musical comedy chorus, where the demand for good looks is greater at present than the supply.

LABOR LEADERS ARE SENTENCED

SAM'L GOMPERS GETS 12 MONTHS, MITCHELL 9 AND MORRISON 6 MONTHS.

CONVICTED OF CONTEMPT

Court's Decision a Scathing Arraignment of the Defendants, Declaring They Determined in Advance to Violate Injunction.

Washington, D. C.—The famous contempt case of the Buck's Stove and Range Co. of St. Louis against President Samuel Gompers, Vice-President John Mitchell and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor was decided Thursday by Justice Wright of the supreme court of the District of Columbia adversely to the Federation officials.

Gompers was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment. Mitchell was sentenced to nine months and Morrison to six months.

Pending an appeal to the United States court of appeals of the District of Columbia, the three defendants were released on bail. The amounts were as follows: Gompers, $5000; Mitchell, $4000; Morrison, $3000. A local surety company furnished the bonds.

Justice Wright's decision was a scathing denunciation of the defendants. He first recited the conditions antedating the injunction and referred to the fact that for 25 years the Buck's plant had operated as a 10-hour shop and always had maintained an "open shop."

He also spoke of the strength of the American Federation of Labor, with its 2,000,000 members, and of its repeated endorsement of the boycott of the Buck's Stove and Range Co., through the American Federationist and by speeches, letters, circulars, etc.

The court referred to the "We Do Not Patronize" list and said that members of the organization were forced into supporting it by various methods.

He read extracts from the Federationist bearing on the Buck's case, and those methods, the court said, seem to be "persuasion."

"Insolent Defiance," Court Calls It.

The court continues: "When, with the parties to this case in attendance, their dispute heard and the status of the subject of their controversy examined into, the inhibitory process of this tribunal issued forth, it was the law's command to stand 'hands off' until justice for this matter could be ascertained."

"Is not law wide enough and its shield broad enough to avert from annihilation that which its tribunals have taken in hand for the very sake of decreeing whether it shall not be saved?"

"Yet everywhere, within the court and out, rampant, insolent defiance is heralded and proclaimed: unrefined insult, coarse affront, vulgar indignity measures the litigant's conception of the tribunal's due, wherein his cause still pends."

The Law Has Been Made to Fail. "Before the injunction was granted, these men announced that neither they nor the American Federation of Labor would obey it; since it issued they have refused to obey it, and, through the American Federation of Labor, disobedience has been successfully achieved; and the law has been made to fail."

"Not only has the law failed in its efforts to arrest a widespread wrong, but the injury has grown more destructive since the injunction than it was before. There is a studied, determined, defiant conflict precipitated in the light of open day between the decree of a tribunal ordained by the government of the Federal Union and of the tribunals of another federation, grown up in the land. One or the other must succumb, for those who would unlawfully the land are public enemies."

15,000 Negatives Burn. Chicago, Ill.—A collection of 15,000 negatives, among them one of a group of newboys with which the owner won several gold medals in a London art exhibit, and others of actresses and prominent people were destroyed when fire attacked the photograph studio of J. Yerkes Foreclosure Sale Postponed. New York, N. Y.—The foreclosure sale of the Yerkes Art Gallery has been postponed again for two weeks. The Mutual Life Insurance company, which holds a mortgage on part of the property, claims about $17,000 for arrears in interest, but has consented to further delay to give the city a chance to secure the gallery.

$50,000 Fire in Little Rock. Little Rock, Ark.—Fire early Wednesday destroyed the building of the Board of Trade, causing a total loss of approximately $100,000, of which the Board of Trade sustained about $50,000.

Bullet for Use Against Balloons. Berlin.—A gunsmith of the name of Schrader has invented and patented an expanding bullet adapted for use against dirigible balloons. The bullet can be fired from the regular infantry rifle.

Maine Blueberry Cake. Sift three cups flour and one-third cup sugar with a rounded teaspoonful cream of tartar and the same amount of soda. The extra amount of soda is to counteract the acidity of the berries. Put in two heaping tablespoonsful butter, one beaten egg, a cup and a third of sweet milk and two cups blueberries dredged with flour. Bake in a shallow cake pan in a hot oven and serve hot for breakfast or supper with butter. The bread should be broken, not cut.

BRIBERY IS CHARGED

PITTSBURG COUNCILMEN AND TWO BANKERS ARRESTED.

THIS IS ONLY THE BEGINNING

Mayor Says Ring Which Grips City by Throat Must Be Suppressed.

Pittsburg, Pa.—A political earthquake is threatened in Allegheny county Tuesday as the result of the arrests of seven of Pittsburg's most prominent councilmen on charges of conspiracy, corrupt solicitation and bribery.

Involved in the conspiracy charges are W. W. Ramsey, former president, and A. A. Vilsack, former cashier of the German National bank. The bankers are charged with conspiring with the accused councilmen in the interest of the German National and other banks likely to be depositories by offering bribes to secure deposit of city money.

ONE AMBASSADOR ARRIVES.

Von Bernstorff in New York, But Sultan's Representative Is Lost.

Washington, D. C.—One new ambassador has arrived in the United States, but another is lost on the way. Count John Heinrich von Bernstorff, German ambassador, with the countess and their daughter, reached New York by the Hamburg-American liner Amerika, but where, oh where, is Hussein Kiazim Bey, who started here from Constantinople and then dropped out of sight.

At the Turkish legation, in Columbia road, the whereabouts of the new representative of the sultan is apparently as great a mystery as it is to the outside world.

This is Ambassador von Bernstorff's first visit to America, while the countess, although born in New York, has not been in America before in 25 years.

Identifies Train Robbers.

Portland, Oregon.—The engineer and fireman of the Oregon railway and Navigation company's train which was robbed near this city last Thursday night positively identified Monday Harry Benson and Oscar Johnson as two of the men implicated in that crime. ## OUST OIL TRUST FROM MISSOURI

SUPREME COURT DECIDES AT TORNEY-GENERAL'S SUIT IN FAVOR OF STATE.

$150,000 IN FINES IMPOSED

Judges Unanimous in Decision, Though Judge Lamm Argued That Waters-Pierce Should Have Been Fined $1,000,000.

St. Louis, Mo.—The Standard Oil company of Indiana and the Republic Oil company of New York are forbidden ever to do business in the State of Missouri again, the charter of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, a Missouri corporation, is ordered dissolved, under a condition which will permit the company to be reorganized, and each of the three concerns is fined $50,000, in a unanimous decision handed down by the state supreme court at Jefferson City Wednesday.

The decision is the result of a suit brought by Attorney General Hadley, now governor-elect; nearly three years ago.

If the Waters-Pierce company shall file satisfactory proof with the court by Jan. 15, 1909, that it has severed all connections with the Standard Oil company, then the order of dissolution will be held in abeyance. Otherwise it will go into effect immediately. The fine of $50,000, however, imposed upon this company, must be paid.

Opinion Filed by Woodson.

The opinion was filed by Justice Woodson, and concurred in as to the result by the other six judges. Justices Lamm and Graves filed separate opinions, but each concurs in the result. Justice Lamm holds that the Standard Oil company should have been forced to pay a fine of $1,000,000.

The Standard Oil company was doing business in this state as an Indiana corporation. It has real estate and personal property in Missouri to the value of about $765,000.

The Republic Oil company did not make any return to the secretary of state this year, the assumption being that it had ceased business in Missouri. The Waters-Pierce company's main offices are in St. Louis.

Trust, Was Allegation.

Attorney General Hadley, in his suit, alleged the Standard Oil company controlled the other two companies, and that they were operating in violation of the anti-trust laws of Missouri. More than a year was spent in securing the testimony desired by the attorney general. It required an order of the appellate court in New York before the attorney general could get H. H. Rogers on the witness stand.

NO QUITTING FOR HENEY.

Frisco Prosecutor in Washington, Invited to White House.

Washington, D. C.—"I still feel a little weak and my wife is nervous about me. But I am going back to finish the Calhoun case, even if they kill me. What's the difference whether one dies at the age of 49 or 69?"

Thus spoke Francis J. Heney Thursday. The famous graft prosecutor of San Francisco, who was shot down in court during the trial of Abe Ruef on Nov. 13, by Morris Haas, is spending a brief vacation in the east. Heney and his wife arrived Wednesday night from Chicago and a messenger from the White House conveyed an invitation to them to call on the president Thursday.

BOARD MEMBER DEFENDS VETS.

Says That Whiskey Consumed Amounts to One Drink a Day.

Former State Senator C. H. Vandiver of Higginsville, Mo., a member of the Board of Managers of the Confederate Soldiers' Home at that place, says that the report that the 300 old veterans of the home consume sixty gallons of whiskey a month, is untrue.

"What they do drink, and that includes the whiskey used in the hospital, is about three barrels annually," he said. "That would be about 150 gallons of whiskey and would mean less than half gallon for each person. That would mean
